

A beautiful resting place—the steamship "Lyman Stewart," a victim of the heavy waves of the Pacific, after running ashore in the fog near the Cliff House at San Francisco.
Pacific & Atlantic.

A saleswoman for charity—Mrs. Robert L. Livingston selling mechanical toys in Stern's in aid of the Maternity Center Association.
Paul Thompson.

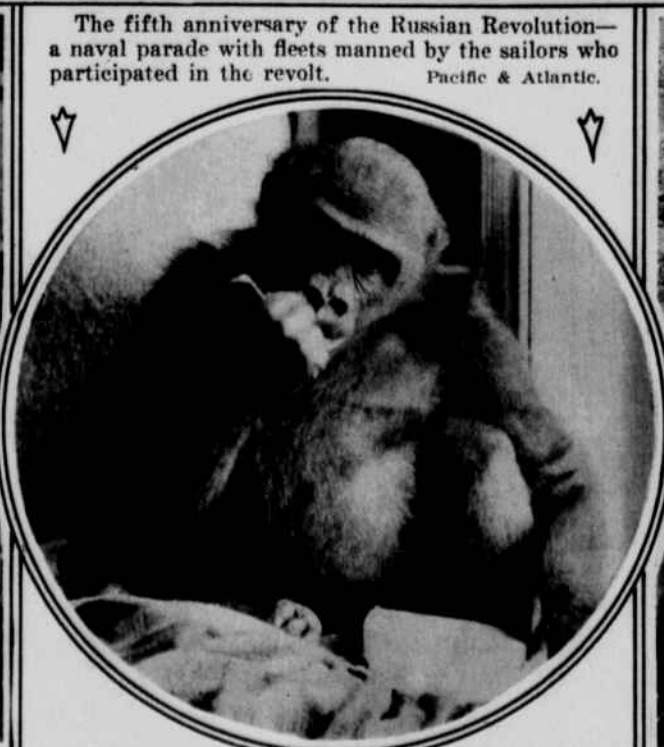

Greenland's juvenile fashions—a group of youngsters well bundled up in styles of their own making. The girls have a distinctive way of dressing their hair.
Fotograms

French and American archaeologists at Carthage discover new relics of ancient civilization. Above is a group of the workers under the American and French flags, while below is a view showing some of the actual excavations made.

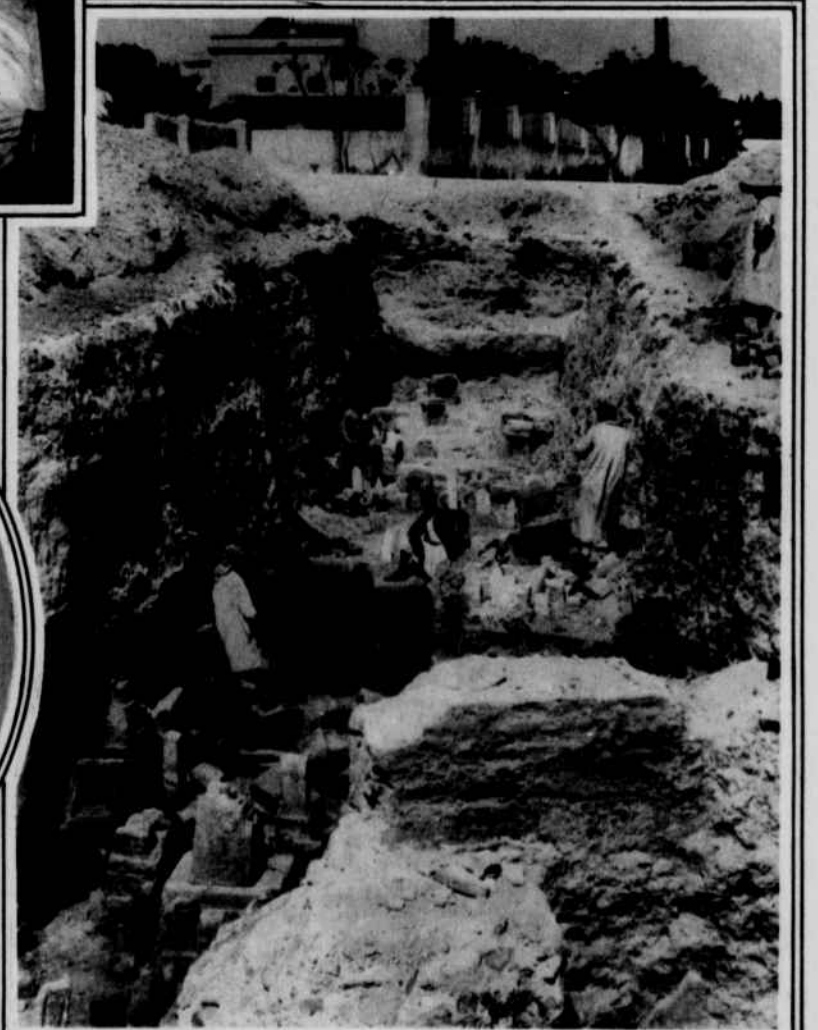

An unusual aerial photograph of the famous mosque of St. Sophia at Constantinople, showing exterior details of the Turkish place of worship. In the background is the Golden Horn.
Kadel & Herbert.

The fifth anniversary of the Russian Revolution—a naval parade with fleets manned by the sailors who participated in the revolt.
Pacific & Atlantic.

Successor to "John Daniel"—Miss Alyse Cunningham, who trained the famous gorilla now in the American Museum of Natural History, is making a second experiment with "Chula," shown above, in her London home.
Kadel & Herbert.

Kadel & Herbert